

Dillan Fontus | Maryland Football

<https://silosolo.com/733430>

Summary

This Silo talks about the importance of standing out on and off the field, the unique recruitment process, the significance of time management, the value of preparation, and advice for aspiring Division One level players.

Silo sample questions

- What advice did the player receive from his coaches?
- What was the player's recruitment process like?
- What is the importance of time management in handling football and academics?
- What did the player learn about the importance of preparation and playing the game?
- What advice does the player have for aspiring Division One level players?

Topics

recruitment process

time management

preparation

advice for aspiring players

small things

Key Takeaways

- To stand out as a player and a person on and off the field, leave a mark, and make someone want to learn more about him.
- He did not have any offers or conversation with college coaches until his 11th grade, then received multiple offers within a year before his senior year.
- Time management is crucial for handling football and academics, ensuring assignments are done on time and balancing sports and academic goals.
- The player learned the importance of taking advantage of every opportunity on the field, given that only 6% of time is spent playing the game while 94% is in preparation.
- To surround yourself with like-minded individuals, put in extra work, and go the extra mile to achieve goals.

Click here for the full transcript

Click here for the source